

Lane Play: Planning, Revision & Reflection (It Could Make The Difference)

Contributed by Joe Slowinski
Friday, 05 October 2007
Last Updated Saturday, 27 October 2007

In the October 2007 installment of Slowinski at-large in Bowling This Month, I discuss the importance of lane play planning and analysis. From pre-tournament self-assessment and goal-setting to post-squad reflection and revision of your lane play plan, the article will help you be better prepared for tournament play. How much have you planned in the past? How often have you actually analyzed your squad to get better in the next one? Click below to launch the article in PDF.

http://bowlingknowledge.info/images/stories/slowinski_btm_oct_2007_lane_play_plan.pdf